

EMDR THERAPY BASIC TRAINING

EYE MOVEMENT
DESENSITISATION
& REPROCESSING

EMDR Therapy provides mental-health practitioners and psychotherapists with the skills and a framework to treat disturbances manifested in conditions of depression, anxiety, phobias, grief and loss, PTSD, addictions, and more.

EMDR synthesises elements of traditional psychological orientations and has been empirically-tested. The therapy is led by the Adaptive Information Processing model that targets and addresses the past, present and future aspects of unresolved memories that contribute to maladaptive ways of coping.

The EMDR Institute states that information processing is enhanced, with new associations forged between the traumatic memory and more adaptive memories or information. These new associations are thought to result in complete information processing, new learning, elimination of emotional distress, and development of cognitive insights. Many clients have reported feeling lighter and freer after EMDR Therapy.
